

Bundaberg flood protection study

Developing a 10-year action plan for flood mitigation in Bundaberg.

The Bundaberg flood protection study is a vital component of the Queensland Government's commitment to develop a 10-year action plan for flood mitigation works in the Bundaberg region.

The study will build on the previous work undertaken in late 2013 by the Bundaberg Regional Council to identify flood mitigation projects.

The Queensland Government is now engaging with the community to further understand flood behaviour as it works to assess and refine these mitigation measures.

Stage 1 of the independent study is being undertaken by Jacobs and includes review of previous studies and public consultation to capture local knowledge about flooding and potential solutions.

This is the first phase of consultation in the development of the 10-year action plan.
